Improving the world through engineering

Join us to explore the oldest turning shed in the world, where the golden age of steam once ruled!

The engine shed and carriage shop were built in 1839 by George Stephenson and famous railway architect Francis Thompson. The crumbling remains of Derby Roundhouse have been sympathetically restored into a truly unique learning centre for Derby College and this special tour reveals how impressive new buildings compliment the character of this historical site.

Cost: £6 per person, payable on the night
